SUPPOSED TO BE DEAD NOW ALIVE

Charles Albrecht of Prairie View the Missing Man Is Found in Texas

IS FOUND BY HIS FRIENDS

Family Had Long Considered Themselves
Husbandless and Fatherless After Relatives and Friends Give Him Up

Charles Albrecht, a prominent farmer and well-digger, who for many years lived at Prairie View, south of Libertyville and who on November 22, 1911, disappeared completely and several times afterwards was reported dead, is still alive and in good health.

Albrecht is now working at the carpenter's trade at San Benito, Texas, and while his family has mourned him as dead for a long time and this week was surprised when they heard he was alive, the strange situation arises that the relatives plan making no efforts to get the truant husband father to return home. They intend allowing him to remain where he has chosen to stay—in Texas.

Recently former Supervisor William E. Miller and other Libertyville men went to Texas in connection with a land deal. They were walking along the streets of San Benito when they saw a man whom they felt they recognized and, investigating, they found that it was Albrecht, the man whom they had known near Libertyville and who was supposed to be dead, was before them, hale and hearty, the liveliest "dead man" they had ever seen.

And then explanations came in quick order. Albrecht told them that he had had domestic troubles and had departed for the south very suddenly. He admitted he had never written home but that he still had managed to hear from his folks through other sources. He knew of the death of John Horenberger and others from near his home. He would not reveal how he had got the news from home but it is evident that someone near Prairie View knew his address and still willing to let his family believe him dead, had kept him posted about home matters.

Time went on and relatives of the former prominent farmer gave up all hopes of ever hearing from him—they placed him in the list of dead who mysteriously pass off the earth and some had begun to forget him when the Libertyville men brought back word of him being in Texas.

The news was like that from the grave for his relatives and friends long ago had given up hope of ever seeing him alive again or of hearing from him.

Inquiry of his sister and sister-in-law at Prairie View reveals the fact that because Albrecht his wife and children to get along these two years without inquiring after them or making any effort to aid them, that he can shift for himself for they have managed to get along so far without him. They declare they will make no effort to induce him to return and he in his turn, told the Libertyville men that he would not plan returning, because he likes Texas and is getting along satisfactorily.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

The story of Lincoln—Soldier, Statesman, Patriot—should be interesting to every reader of the news and in memory of the great Emancipator we run in this issue a special feature article that should be read by young and old.

Under Lincoln's guiding hand the Union was preserved and much can be learned from his character as a rugged American and a true patriot.

Following our regular policy the News will each week run feature articles and stories that are of such value to mean a direct loss to every subscriber who fails to read them.

Start reading them and you will see the big value, besides the local news, contained in every copy of the News.

Ideals are like stars; you will not succeed in touching them with your hands. But, like the seafaring man on deserts of water, you choose them as your guides, and following them reach your destiny.—Carl Schurz.

MANY CANDIDATES OUT County Election is Many Months Away But, the Ticket is Getting Interesting

Although the next election of county officers in Lake county is many months distant, indications at the present time are for a rather peppery campaign and even at this early date numerous candidates for the various offices are being announced. So far Geo. N. Powell has signified his willingness to again serve the county in capacity of sheriff coming out on the Bull Moose ticket; Charles Thayer and Elvin Griffin, Republicans, have also shown a hankering for that honor and Henry Broecker has received the endorsement of the democrats of the county for the same office.

George Jackson, a butcher in the employ of Fred Buck of Waukegan has announced his candidacy for supervisor of Waukegan on the Democratic ticket. His policy is to apply the cleaver to high taxes and to oppose the erection of a new court house.

Other prospective candidates are intimating their intentions but have not as yet come out flat footed after the nomination.

With the Democrats putting up a full ticket of county officers, the first time in years, the Bull Moosers seeking for a peek in, and the Republicans determined to hold the fort, the coming campaign will of a necessity be an active one and the winners whoever they may be will no doubt have a run for their money.

ANTIOCH MEN HONORED

Albert E. Jack and J. F. Martin Receive
Honors of Milk Association

Two Lake county men now hold high offices in the Milk Producers' association. They are Albert E. Jack of Antioch, who was unanimously elected secretary and J. F. Martin, also of Antioch, re-elected treasurer.

Mr. Jack is well qualified for the position and will do all in his power to further the interests of the association. He will move to Chicago, so as to give his entire time to the duties of his office.

Of the 22 counties from the three states, comprising 141 locals, but one Wisconsin county was not represented. Lake county was represented by 28 delegates, her full quota. N. E. Gatzert, secretary of the county organization, acted as chairman for this body.

The producers are encouraged by the "do or die" spirit which was exhibited at the convention. "It speaks well for the future," commented a farmer.

C. G. Small, of Prairie View, was another Lake county man elected to office. He defeated Frank Holt of Wisconsin for second vice president, by a vote of 170 to 3.

A history of the Dairy Farmers' Protective association, and the methods used by that association in their victorious fight against Chicago dealers, was told by N. E. Gatzert. His suggestions were carefully listened to and many of them will be brought before the board of directors for consideration as to the advisability of adopting their use in the larger association.

ZION CITY LACE FACTORY WILL REMAIN IN ZION

Official announcement has been made by the heads of the Marshall Field Lace company, that it is not their intention to remove their lace works from Zion City. A couple of weeks ago the report spread like wild fire that Zion City was to lose its principal industry. Various factions there received it with varying emotions. The Volitives seeing in it cause for rejoicing, claiming that its removal would take many of the Independents from the city. Whether the report was put in circulation by some "wag" thirsting for more Zion excitement or whether one or the other of the varying factions were seeking to make an impression of some sort or the other, is not known. But it only remained for the Company to make the denial which they are promptly doing.

FOX LAKE RESIDENTS HAVE PETITION ASKING PAROLE OF ASBYJORNSEN

Residents of Fox Lake and vicinity are circulating a petition asking that Oscar Asbyjornsen who received an indeterminate sentence in the state penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., be paroled. Asbyjornsen pleaded guilty on a manslaughter charge. He was drunk when he shot and mortally injured his partner. The petition will be presented to Governor Dunne on the first day of March.

NAVY MAN ELUDES CAPTURE

Son of Zion Resident Foils
Attempt Made by Sheriff to Take Him

SEARCH PARENTS' HOME

Recruit from U. S. Battleship is a Deserter and is Being Sought by the Lake County Authorities

Charles Sparrow, an alleged deserter from the U. S. Navy, foiled an attempt made by Sheriff Green and one deputy to take him captive at Zion City Tuesday, where he has been hiding for the past ten days. He made a hairbreadth escape from the hands of the law.

Two weeks ago Sheriff Green was advised that Sparrow had deserted from a U. S. battleship on the east coast. For two weeks Sheriff Green watched the young man's parent's residence in Zion City, and only Tuesday was he advised that the young man had been seen about the place. Two minutes after the sheriff received word that the alleged deserter had been seen in Zion City, he boarded a train with a deputy.

When they reached the Sparrow home the mother of the young man opened the door and asked the sheriff what he wanted. He told the aged woman that he was searching for her son, who had been booked as a deserter from the navy.

"Unless you surrender the young man, I will search the house," said Sheriff Green.

"Why he left a few minutes before you arrived. You may search the house but you won't find him," responded the gray-haired woman.

Sheriff Green and his deputy searched the house from cellar to attic.

From what could be ascertained the young man ran to the electric road station and boarded a north bound car. A man answering Sparrow's description was seen to leave the electric car at Racine.

A special guard will be stationed in Zion City to arrest the man in case he returns to the home of his parents.

The young man enlisted in the navy six months ago. He served his apprenticeship at the naval training station, Great Lakes, but was transferred to the Pacific coast two months ago. He disappeared from the battleship at Newport News, it is said. A reward has been offered by Uncle Sam for his arrest.

Police of the North Shore have been furnished with a description of the young man. When seen in Zion City the alleged deserter was wearing civilian's clothes.

The sheriff fears that the young man left his parents home by a rear door when he drove up to the house.

BURGLARS GET $40 FROM NORTHWESTERN DEPOT AT BRISTOL

The station of the Northwestern Railway Company at Bristol was entered by burglars some time Thursday night of last week and the men got away with money to the amount of $40 and it is thought a large number of railway tickets. The burglary was discovered when the station was opened for business the next morning. The men had made their way into the station by breaking out one of the windows and once inside they thoroughly ransacked the place.

It was expected that the men would go to Kenosha on the milk train and the police of that city had an early call to search the milk train, but two men who had dropped off the train just before it reached the station were rounded up by the police and they were held as suspects. The men gave their names as Harry Anderson and Barney Olson and both claimed to be residents of Chicago. They have been working on the ice in the western part of the country.

TEACHERS MEETING SATURDAY

Interesting Session is to be Held at Lake Bluff and Many Will Attend

WILL GIVE DEMONSTRATION

Principal Owen of the Chicago Normal
School Will Give the Main Address and others will speak

A county teachers' meeting is to be held at Lake Bluff on Saturday, Feb. 8, beginning at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. Teachers from Waukegan and all parts of the county will be present as the meeting promises to be one of unusual interest.

One of the most interest features will be a class demonstration of the following teachers, Miss Mary Bell, principal; Miss Lelah Glynn, Miss Eleanor Wesner and Clara Dietrich.

In addition Miss Gertrude Miller of Highland Park Schools, will have the sixth grade class in geography and will demonstrate type study, probably taking as her subject either the iron and steel industry or a great continental railroad.

Miss M. Johnson of North Chicago will take her second grade class with her and will demonstrate the second grade work in reading and numbers.

The afternoon session will be held in town hall and Miss Canham of the Highland Park class in gymnastic dancing will give what promises to be an interesting demonstration.

There will also be a talk by Principal W. A. Owen of Chicago Normal school. Mr. Owen is said to be a very able speaker and should have something very interesting to say.

Miss Alice Smith will preside at the meeting.

Those who have been selected to take charge of the demonstration in the different subjects have been working hard for some time to get best results possible from their children and the other teachers will attend to get the benefit of superior instruction in some one line.

$600 DAMAGE BY FIRE TO THE BEAUTIFUL HOME OF THOMPSON

Fire broke out in the beautiful summer home of John R. Thompson, just south of Libertyville Saturday morning. For a time the residence, which is perhaps one of the finest summer homes on any Lake county farm, was in great danger but the employees of the place were quickly formed into a bucket brigade and their efforts saved the place, although damage of about $600 was done.

The damage was restricted to the roof and a huge hole was burned in it. Considerable damage was done to the furnishings of the home as a result of the smoke and water. That the whole structure was not lost because of the absence of a fire fighting equipment, seemed a remarkable thing and employees no doubt will get much praise for their efforts upon Mr. Thompson's arrival. A defective flue is believed to have caused the fire, which started in an upper room.

FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE ON YOUNG FARM

Some time between twelve and one o'clock this (Thursday) morning the house on the Wm. Young farm east of town was found to be wrapped in flames.

The origin of the fire is not known but it evidently started on the first floor, seemingly in the kitchen. So far had the flames advanced before discovery that when Roy Dennison and family, the present tenants on the farm, awoke it was to find almost the entire lower floor ablaze. The children were lowered from the windows and when Mr. Dennison and wife left the building all they were able to take with them was a scant supply of clothing. Nothing further was saved. The building was completely destroyed.

PACKERS FAVOR NEW LAW

The Law Prevents the Killing of Calves and Brings the High Cost of Meat Down

Startling facts regarding the decrease of the cattle supply in the United States are revealed in a report just issued by the Department of Agriculture. The report shows that the supply of cattle in the last year has been the smallest in many years and that it has a direct bearing on the high cost of living.

According to the heads of large packing interests in Chicago, the decrease in the cattle supply is playing a large part in the rise of the price of meat and in the general cost of meat foodstuffs. The increase, it is asserted, can be traced directly to the breeder and the farmer, who it is declared, have depleted their ranges of marketable cattle by the killing of calves for the market.

J. Ogden Armour, head of the Armour Packing company, in discussing the decrease of the cattle supply said: "The present shortage of cattle is in a large measure responsible for the high cost of living. The cattle raisers of the West are not allowing their herds to grow to a marketable size."

There should be a law in the United States which would prohibit the killing of calves. Such a law as this, I believe, is in force in South America with the result that their herds are rapidly overhauling ours. The people of the United States consume more veal than other nation in the world, and the price here is higher. As a matter of fact it is ridiculously high, but the demand far exceeds the supply and this results in the killing of the young cattle."

John A. Spoor, president of the Stock Yards company, takes the same view of the situation as Mr. Armour.

YOUNGEST CHILD OF MR. AND MRS. PETE LAURSEN PASSES AWAY

A week ago Sunday evening at seven o'clock, little Glenn Einer the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Laurson was removed from their home by death. The little fellow had been ill with pneumonia for six days and in spite of all that could be done passed away on the 26 day of January, the day upon which he was eighteen months old.

The funeral services were held at the home Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock with Rev. Stixrud officiating and burial at the Oakland cemetery. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of all.

MILK STRIKE AND FAMINE THREATENED

Producers Condemn the Alleged Dealers' Trust; May
Quit Dairying

ATTACK IS LEAD BY WOMAN

"Every Farmer Should Stick Together and Set Their Own Figures" Says Mrs.
Scott Durand

A strike by the milk producers of Illinois, with the possibility of a milk famine, Monday was threatened at the fifth annual meeting of the Milk Producers' association at the Hotel Sherman.

Denouncing the "milk trust" and charging the several boards of with working in the interest large dealers, the members suit a raise of seven-eighths of a cent wholesale price of milk for the mer.

"I urge you to resist the ment of outsiders," said M. Durand of Crabtree Dairy far Bluff. "Stand together. Se price, and if the retailers insist on one-half of the p ceive a quart. If you can price, raise hogs, feed the and make butter from you are in a position to rule do.

"You cannot be true unless you set your own continued. 'Don't let any one what you should get for your milk should received not less than 4 o quart all the year round. As boards of health and other faddi don't need them for our cons we have conscience of our own The report of the committee ing the price of milk was al aniously adopted.

"We believe" said the "that the producers of milk the dairy district tributary of Chicago have further j for complaint, just causes ing, and for denouncing as unreasonable many of the and conditions contained in ordinance passed in August the city council of Chicago.

"It has been proven in pr its provisions are in the in the large dealers. We, there mit that the prices for w should be sold by the producer, the period of six months beginning April 1, 1913, based upon cost and reasonable remuneration to the producer, should average no less than $1.50 per 100 pounds, or 3 1/2 cents a quart."

It was shown that the producer now gets 2 1/2 cents in summer and 3 1/2 cents in winter, and that the distributor receives 8 cents. It was agreed that it costs the producer as much to dairy successfully in one season of the year as the other and that for this reason he should receive the same rate for his milk all the year round.

"You are the finest bunch of hired men I have seen together," shouted V. S. Lumley of Woodstock. "You claim to be independent farmers when you're really the hired men of the milk trust. You say give Chicago what it wants and let it pay for it when the facts are that Chicago is getting what it wants and you are paying for it."

"You are working for Gail Borden, the milk trust owner and you give him your time for nothing. Recognize the Boston Tea Party. Gail Borden takes you as much as he pleases and you do not dare say boo!"

"Talk about faddists. Do you know Dr. Evans sees bugs in every thing? He can't live without bugs because he's a bugologist. He can afford to specialize on bugs. You can't. So don't let anybody tell you your business."

Dr. Young told us that our cows breed scarlet fever. He didn't tell us, though that Chicago sent scarlet fever out to us. He challenged us a year ago by saying Chicago was able to take care of herself. If this is so let her do it and not come out in our country.

"You have been telling your daughter not to marry a farm boy but to get a city chap. Let me tell you something. You go back home and tell her."

LINCOLN'S VOW FREED THE SLAVES

ABRAM LINCOLN called his cabinet together on September 22, 1862, to read to them his first proclamation of emancipation. In the diaries of two of the members of that council are given vivid running accounts of that meeting, telling of Lincoln's solemn vow and its consummation. This is the story of that day as told by Salmon P. Chase, secretary of the treasury:

To department about nine. State department messenger came with notice to heads of departments to meet at twelve. Received sundry callers. Went to the White House. All the members of the cabinet were in attendance. There was some general talk, and the president mentioned that Artemus Ward had sent him his book. Proposed to read a chapter which he thought very funny. Read it, and seemed to enjoy it very much; the heads also (except Stanton), of course. The chapter was "High-handed Outrage at Ulca." The president then took a graver tone, and said:

"Gentlemen: I have, as you are aware, thought a great deal about the relation of this war to slavery; and you all remember that, several weeks ago, I read to you an order that I prepared on this subject, which, on account of objections made by some of you, was not issued. Ever since then my mind has been much-occupied with this subject, and I have thought, all along, that the time for acting on it might probably come. I think the time has come now. I wish it was a better time. I wish that we were in a better condition. The action of the army against the rebels has not been quite what I should have best liked.

THE STATUE OF LINCOLN ERECTED BY THE FREED SLAVES

"When the rebel army was at Frederick, I determined, as soon as it should be driven out of Maryland, to issue a proclamation of emancipation, such as I thought most likely to be useful. I said nothing to any one, but I made the promise to myself and (hesitating a little) to my Maker. The rebel army is now driven out, and I am going to fulfill that promise.

"I have got you together to hear what I have written down. I do not wish your advice about the main matter, for that I have determined for myself. This is a subject without intending anything but respect for any one of you. But I already know the views of each on this question. They have been heretofore expressed, and I have considered them as thoroughly and carefully as I could. What I have written is that which my reflections have determined me to say. If there is anything in the expressions I use, or in any minor matter, which any one of you thinks had best be changed, I shall be glad to receive the suggestions.

"One other observation I will make. I know very well that many others might, in this matter as in others, do better than I can; and if I was satisfied that the public confidence was more fully possessed by any one of them than by me, and knew of any constitutional way in which he could be put in my place, he should have it. I would gladly yield it to him. But, though I believe that I have not so much the confidence of the people as I had some time since, I do not know that, all things considered, any other person has more; and, however this may be, there is no way in which I can have any other man put where I am. I am here; I must do the best I can, and bear the responsibility of taking the course which I feel I ought to take."

The president then proceeded to read his Emancipation Proclamation, making remarks on the several parts as he went on, and showing that he had fully considered the whole subject, in all the lights under which it had been presented to him. After he had closed, Governor Seward said:

"The general question having been decided, nothing can be said farther about that. Would it not, however, make the proclamation more clear and decided to leave out all reference to the act being sustained during the incumbency of the present president; and not merely say that the government 'recognizes' but that it will maintain, the freedom it proclaims?"

I followed, saying:

"What you have said, Mr. President, fully satisfies me that you have given to every proposition which has been made a kind and candid consideration. And you have now expressed the conclusion to which you have arrived clearly and distinctly. This it was your right, and, under your oath of office, your duty to do. The proclamation does not, indeed, mark out exactly the course I would myself prefer. But I am ready to take it just as it is written, and to stand by it with all my heart. I think, however, the suggestions of Governor Seward very judicious, and shall be glad to have them adopted."

The president then asked us severally our opinions as to the modification proposed, saying that he did not care much about the phrases he had used. Every one favored the modification, and it was adopted. Governor Seward then proposed that, in the passage relating to colonization, some language should be introduced to show that the colonization proposed was to be only with the consent of the colonists and the consent of the states in which colonies might be attempted. This, too, was agreed to, and no other modification was proposed.

Gideon Welles, secretary of the navy, also recorded in his diary the events of that day. He, too, alluded to the solemn covenant Lincoln had made, to free the slaves in the event of a victory. The victory had come, and Lincoln had made up his mind. This is Welles' narrative, written under date of September 22:

A special cabinet meeting. The subject was the proclamation for emancipating the slaves after a certain date, in states that shall then be in rebellion. For several weeks the subject has been suspended, but the president says never lost sight of. When it was submitted, and now, in taking up the proclamation, the president stated that the question was finally decided, the act and the consequences were his, but that he felt it due to us to make us acquainted with the fact and to invite criticism on the paper which he had prepared. There were, he had found, not unexpectedly, some differences in the cabinet, but he had, after ascertaining in his own way the views of each and all, individually and collectively, formed his own conclusions and made his own decisions.

In the course of the discussion on this paper, which was long, earnest, and, on the general principle involved, harmonious, he remarked that he had made a vow, a covenant, that if God gave us the victory in the approaching battle, he would consider it an indication of Divine Will, and that it was his duty to move forward in the cause of emancipation. It might be thought strange, he said, that he had in this way submitted the disposal of matters when the way was not clear to his mind what he should do. God had decided this question in favor of the slaves.

He was satisfied it was right, was confirmed and strengthened in his action by the vow and the results. His mind was fixed, his decision made, but he wished his paper announcing his course as correct in terms as it could be made without any change in the determination. He read the document. One or two unimportant amendments suggested by Seward were approved. It was then handed to the secretary of state to publish tomorrow.

After this, Blair remarked that he considered it proper to say he did not concur in the expediency of the measure at this time, though he approved of the principle, and should, therefore, wish to file his objections. He stated at some length his views, which were substantially that he ought not to put in greater jeopardy the patriotic element in the border states, that the results of this proclamation would be to carry over those states en masse to the secessionists as soon as it was read, and that there was also a class of partisans in the free states endeavoring to revive old parties, who would have a club put into their hands of which they would avail themselves to beat the administration.

The president said he had considered the danger to be apprehended from the first objection, which was undoubtedly serious, but the objection was certainly as great not to act; as regarded the last, it had not much weight with him.

The question of power, authority, in the government to set free the slaves was not much discussed at this meeting, but had been canvassed by the president in private conversation with the members individually. Some thought legislation advisable before the step was taken, but congress was clothed with no authority on this subject, nor is the executive, except under the war-power—military necessity, martial law, when there can be no legislation. This was the view which I took when the president first presented the subject to Seward and myself last summer, as we were returning from the funeral of Stanton's child—a ride of two or three miles from beyond Georgetown. Seward was at that time not at all communicative, and, I think, not willing to advise, though he did not dissent from the movement.

It is momentous, both in its immediate and remote results, and an exercise of extraordinary power, which cannot be justified on mere humanitarian principles, and would never have been attempted but to preserve the national existence. The slaves must be with us or against us in the war. Let us have them. These were my convictions, and this the drift of the discussion.

The effect which the proclamation will have on the public mind is a matter of some uncertainty. In some respects it would, I think, have been better to have issued it when formerly first considered.

There is an impression that Seward has opposed, and is opposed to, the measure. I have not been without that impression myself, chiefly from his hesitation to commit himself, and perhaps because action was suspended on his suggestion. But in the final discussion he has as cordially supported the measure as Chase.

For myself the subject has, from its magnitude and its consequences, oppressed me, aside from the ethical features of the question. It is a step in the progress of this war which will extend into the distant future. A favorable termination of this terrible conflict seems more remote with every movement, and unless the rebels hasten to avail themselves of the alternative presented, of which I see little probability, the war can scarcely be other than one of emancipation to the slave, or subjugation, or subversion to their rebel owners.

There is in the free states a very general impression that this measure will insure a speedy peace. I cannot say that I so view it. No one in those states dare advocate peace as a means of prolonging slavery, even if it is his honest opinion, and the pecuniary, industrial, and social sacrifice impending will intensify the struggle before us. While, however, these dark clouds are above and around us, I cannot see how the subject can be avoided. Perhaps it is not desirable it should be. It is, however, an arbitrary and despotic measure in the cause of freedom.

BOY OBEYED ORDERS GIVEN

Meant Well, but Information Was Not Welcomed by Hotel Manager Just at That Time.

A certain New York hotel manager is one of these nervous men who constantly warn their employees against keeping them in ignorance of any happening around the place. He hired a new bell boy recently, and gave him the usual warning:

"Remember," he warned, "if anything happens around here I'm to be the first person to know about it."

Soon after that he was showing three haughty Daughters of the Confederacy one of the best rooms in the place, when the new bell boy rushed in with his hair on end.

"Something's happened!" he replied.

The three Daughters of the Confederacy turned coldly, and the manager, anxious to get rid of the boy, demanded to know the trouble.

"That old cat down stairs," said the boy, "has just had kittens! What shall we do?"

The manager's suggestion was rough.

SUFFERED FOR 25 YEARS.

Mr. R. M. Flenor, R. F. D. 39, Otterbein, Ind., writes: "I had been a sufferer from Kidney Trouble for about 25 years. I finally got so bad that I had to quit work, and doctors failed to do me any good. I kept getting worse all the time, and it at last turned to inflammation of the bladder, and I had given up all hope, when one day I received your little booklet advertising to try them. I did, and took only two boxes, and I am now sound and well. I regard my cure as remarkable. I can recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to any one who is suffering from Kidney Trouble as I was." Write to Mr. Flenor about this wonderful remedy.

Brightening Flower Pots.

Flower pots frequently fade into a dingy color from their original bright and cheerful brick red. They may be easily brightened again by putting ordinary red ochre in water until it is about as thick as paint, then painting the flower pot, which absorbs the color and holds it.

Silence may be golden, but silver will shut a man's mouth just as effectively.

CONSTIPATION

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are unlike other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods, they do not scour; they do not gripe; they do not weaken; but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and bowels. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it. Price 25 cents. All Druggists.

After Long Suffering

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills."

We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills.

Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken 12 bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. Brown, 800 North Walnut Street, Iola, Kan.

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS:

Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for 14 years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed, in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sensitive Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 456 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

MUST BE KEPT FROM HEAT

Something to Be Remembered by the Woman Fond of the Perfume of the Violet.

Adrop of violet perfume it may be well to whisper in the ear of every woman the secret which every perfume so well knows, a very simple little secret, but very important to the preservation of perfume. It is that no bottle of violet should at any time be put near the heat, nor in the strong light, either artificial or natural, for a decided chemical change takes place not only in the color of the perfume, but in the odor.

The wistaria blossoms have surrendered their color and strange sweetness to the skill of the perfumers. They may be had in sachet. There are also the bars of sandalwood which may be laid among one's frocks but many, comparatively speaking, do not care for its pungent quality compared to the blossomy outdoor fragrance of the real flower scents.

Ground sandalwood and orris may also be had for about one dollar for a quarter of a pound to make into individual sachets, but no sachet is lasting, and too much should not be expected of it in the way of durability.

Perfume burners have found their way into vogue. The correct way to use these artistic combinations of gun metal and brass, which look so like a tiny and much beautiful alcohol lamp, is to mix the perfume with water and let it boil. As it does so the freshness of the blossoms floats off with the vapor and the room's lightly filled with fragrance.

All perfumes which are imported have risen in value. It is the higher duty which has brought this, not any scarcity of flowers, as the many manufacturers would have us believe.

FACE A SIGHT WITH TETTER

Moberly, Mo.—"My trouble began with a small pimple on the left side of my face and it spread all over my face and to my neck. It would be scarlet red when I got warm. My face was a sight. It looked very unpleasant, and it felt uncomfortable. My face was something awful; it just kept me in agony all the time. Some said it was tetter, and some said it was that awful eczema, but I rather think it was tetter. I had been troubled with it for about two years and tried many remedies, but got no relief until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. "When I would wash my face with the Cuticura Soap and apply the Cuticura Ointment it would cool my skin and draw great big drops of matter out of the skin. You would think I was sweating; it would run down my face just as though I had washed it. It itched and smarted and I suffered in the day time most. I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment for a month and I was cured of it." (Signed) Mrs. J. Brookshier, April 15, 1912. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

SENATE ADOPTS BILL

UPPER HOUSE PASSES ONE-TERM MEASURE BY SMALL MAJORITY.

NOW GOES TO LOWER BRANCH

Limits All Presidents to Only Six Years in Office, After which They Are Forever Barred From the Chief Executivehip.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The senate Saturday night by a vote of 47 to 23—one more than the necessary two-thirds—adopted the resolution for an amendment to the Constitution providing for a single six-year presidential term.

Following is the text of the resolution as adopted:

"The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. The term of office of president shall be six years, and no person who has held the office by election or discharged its powers or duties or acted as president under the Constitution and laws made in pursuance thereof, shall be eligible to again hold the office by election."

The vote on the resolution was:

For.	Against.
Ashurst	McCumber
Bankhead	Nelson
Brandagee	Newlands
Bryan	Overman
Burnham	Owen
Buttrick	Paynter
Chamberlain	Penrose
Chilton	Perkins
Clarke (Ark.)	Perkins
Cummins	Perkins
Dill	Perkins
Dix	Perkins
Fletcher	Perkins
Gamble	Perkins
Gardner	Perkins
Gugensheim	Perkins
Hitchcock	Perkins
Johnson	Perkins
Johnston (Ala.)	Perkins
Kavanaugh	Perkins
Kern	Perkins

Senator Shively of Indiana was the only Democrat to vote against the resolution. He based his opposition on the six-year provision, contending that a case might arise where a president would hold office and that there ought to be opportunity to get rid of him at least at the end of four years.

The single term question is now up to the house.

Washington, Feb. 3.—The United States senate here Friday by a narrow margin of three votes, defeated a plan to nominate candidates for president and vice-president by primary and to change the Constitution so as to abolish the electoral college and elect future presidents by popular vote. The senate went on record in favor of continuing old system by a vote of 35 to 32.

2 DEAD; 18 HURT IN FIRE

Flames Cause Wild Panic in Moving Picture Theater—Famous South Carolina Hotel Burns.

New York, Feb. 4.—Two women were crushed to death, 18 men, women and children were injured so badly as to necessitate their instant removal to the operating room of Bellevue hospital, and almost a hundred others were painfully hurt in a panic at the moving picture theater at 145 East Houston street, known as the Houston Hippodrome, Sunday.

Alken, S. C., Feb. 4.—In one of the most spectacular fires Alken has ever seen, and in which upwards of a quarter of a million dollars' worth in property, jewelry and personal effects was destroyed, the Park-in-the Pines hotel, Alken's famous hostelry, was burned to the ground here Sunday.

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 4.—Fire here destroyed the docks and warehouse of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation company, a large amount of freight and five blocks of small houses in the Yamacraw section of the river front. The loss will be between $500,000 and $750,000.

11 KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Dynamite Blast in Hardware Store at Cienfuegos, Cuba, Deals Death and Destruction.

Havana, Feb. 4.—A terrific explosion of dynamite in a hardware store at Cienfuegos Sunday killed eleven persons and injured more than a hundred others. A number of the injured will probably die. The cause of the explosion is unknown as the owner of the store, Jose Mayo, a Spaniard, is so badly injured that he is unable to talk. A number of buildings in the vicinity of the hardware store were wrecked and the shock was felt for 20 miles. Three Americans were injured.

"Sure they could," answered the skeptic eagerly. "They couldn't live together on it."

MEETING WITH ROBERT BARR

Journey of a Couple to Cologne Was Materially Enlivened by the Novelist.

I have a pleasant recollection of Robert Barr, the popular novelist, whose death was recently announced, writes a woman correspondent of the London Chronicle. A relative and I were traveling some years since in Germany, and took the water way to Cologne. Among the numbers of brotchen devouring and beer drinking passengers on the little steamer I noticed one, a man with an eager expression, who was distinguished by his abstinence and by his absorption in the passing scenery of the Rhine. I got into conversation by chance with the observer, and the whole route to Cologne was from that moment made a living reality to me by the man's comment.

The following day we decided to continue our journey, and again we chose the transit steamer, and again we met the man of recollection and observation. I tried, by conversational openings, to discover his identity, but he heeded none, continuing to pour out a flood of history and legend of the Rhine. At length the time of parting came. With a sweep of the arm, which included my companion and myself, he said: "I shall hope to see you when you return from this, the journey of your lives," and handed me a card, on which was inscribed the name of Robert Barr. "I don't think we can call together," I replied, "for while I live in London, my brother's home is in the north, and I seldom catch sight of him on his day trips to town." "Your brother," replied the editor of the Idler, "then why the deuce do you both have new luggage?"

Ninety Miles Somewhar.
A traveler waiting for a train in Greenville, S. C., observed a venerable, white bearded gentleman sauntering along the platform, whose appearance invited conversation. He approached the dignified, kind faced southerner with the customary salutation of "Good morning, colonel, do you live here?" "Yes, sah." "Engaged in growing cotton?" "No, sah, I am a statistician." After harvesting his crop of local statistics, I asked him how far it was to Atlanta. He replied that it was about ninety miles, when a young man who was standing near interposed: "Oh, no, uncle, it is more 'an ninety miles." The old gentleman stroked his beard meditatively for a moment, shifted his quid and said: "Waal, Jack, it's ninety-miles-somewhar—whar's that place anyway, Jack?"

Real Friend.
There is one friend who will never fail you while you have hands to move and a brain to plan. In your dreariest hours she will be your sweet refuge, and in times of prosperity she will guard you from "the pride which goeth before a fall." She will bring you long nights of restful sleep at the end of your busy days and when other friends grow careless or disdainful, she will absorb you more and more. Her name is Work, and neither the highest nor the lowest can be happy for long without her.

Disputed Door.
A curious suit is reported from Avignon, France. It is brought by an antiquary to obtain possession of the door of the city of Avignon, which he had bought. Possession was refused on a prior contract with another party, but this contention was discovered. At this stage it was discovered that an old agreement existed prohibiting the demolition of any part of the property. This agreement is now being contested, and it is anticipated that the sale to the antiquary will be confirmed.

Higher Equity.
Bismarck used to delight in telling the story of how, when foraging for food with two companions in an almost deserted village, he came upon a man from whom he procured five eggs. Unable to divide five among three, he began by swallowing two; then, calling his companions, shared the three remaining eggs with them—a truly Bismarckian idea of an equitable division.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Rare "Breeches" Bible.
A "breeches" Bible, dated 1601, was recently bequeathed by Dr. William P. G. Black of Dublin to his brother, the Rev. Gibson J. H. M. Black. This is the translation in which Adam and Eve are described as making themselves "breeches" of figleaves. The authorized version uses the word "aprons."

Brevity in Correspondence.
For brevity nothing can beat the correspondence between Victor Hugo and his publisher on the issue of "Les Miserables." Very busy but anxious to know how the book was selling, Hugo sent the publisher a card marked simply "?." The reply came back "1."

New York's Nickname.
Gotham is the name of a village in England whose inhabitants, according to ancient tradition, were noted for their unsophisticatedness and simplicity and hence were called, by way of ridicule, "the wise men of Gotham." English legends and rhymes refer to the wise men of Gotham, and Washington Irving, in Salmagundi, applied it as a nickname to New York because the inhabitants were such wiseacres. The nickname has survived its original significance if it ever had any.

Mrs. Fred Brown and Mrs. Charles Key spent Friday in Chicago.

Os. Barnstable of Chetek, Wis., is visiting relatives and friends here.

Ex-Sheriff E. J. Griffin of Waukegan was an Antioch business visitor Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hillebrand spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Chicago.

Mrs. B. F. Naber and Mrs. N. B. Bates spent Wednesday and Thursday in Waukegan.

The Allendale Clover club entertained a number of the Antioch young people at a dance Saturday evening.

The Court of Honor this week moved from their old quarters in the Thayer building into the Woodman hall.

A card received the first of the week from Earl Pitman states that he is enjoying the sights of Habana, Cuba, but expects to be home in March.

Last Saturday evening Mrs. Elmer Brook had the misfortune to slip and fall on some ice in the Morley yard and in so doing sprained her right ankle very severely and also fractured two ribs.

In last week's issue of the Wilmot Agitator its editor R. B. Swenson, expresses his intention of discontinuing that publication as his reason, his removal to California on account of poor health. For twelve years Mr. Swenson has published a newsy little sheet and in an impartial manner has given the public accurate accounts of the doings in and about the little village and it is with regret that his wide circle of friends learn of his intended departure. We wish Mr. Swenson the best of success in whatever undertaking he may venture in his new home.

COUNTY WIDE CAMPAIGN FOR NEW FACTORIES

The village of Grayslake has an industrial association. Last Saturday evening the first meeting of the association was held and F. D. Batter shall was elected as president. The plan of the organization will be along lines of the association.

The purpose of the association will be to locate factories in the village. The association, it is stated, will acquire a large strip of land for factory sites which will be allotted as a factory district, where free sited will be given. The meeting is reported to have been a very enthusiastic one, and not only were the townspeople interested in the movement, but the farmers who showed their willingness to help the project along.

It is stated that another large canning factory wishes to locate there and also a factory manufacturing cans for such industries.

It will mean the doubling of the population of the village if the industries now sought are secured.

A man prominent in affairs in the central portion of the county states that the movement is general about the county and that Lake Villa, Barrington, Libertyville and other villages are forming similar organizations to develop the industrial activities.

It is expected that they will be successful as they have a large financial support coming from the wealthy farmers who decide to invest their money in industries that would give them a fair return.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Excuses are due.

This week a large leaf from a banana tree was added to our collection.

Please pay your tuition for February. English IV is reading "Comus."

George says that he will soon be able to speak German more readily than English.

Through an accident Robert Wilton had his leg fractured while at school Friday. We hope he will soon be able to be with us again.

The Review class is studying Grammar this week.

What did you think of last week's school notes?

Bertha was in Waukegan over Sunday and Monday we caught her humming "When the Midnight Choo Choo Leaves for Alabama."

We are glad to see Marguerite Padock again in school.

Chinese Memorial Arches.
The p'ailous, or memorial arches of China, says Frederick McCormick, in the National Geographic Magazine, rival the pagodas in grace, beauty and numbers. MEN WHO FACE MANY PERILS Surveyors for the U. S. Are Often Called Upon to Endanger Their Lives.

Washington—Government surveyors who make maps out in the regions where rock walls go straight up and sometimes overhang, often have to get into positions requiring steady nerves. Once in a while some one in the party gets a photograph which illustrates the idea, although usually the performance is recorded briefly in the surveyor's notebook. In one instance the present chief geographer of the United States geological survey had to be tied on to the extreme apex of a sharp mountain peak in northern California, together with his instruments, in order to obtain a long sight in establishing a triangulation station.

In another case R. B. Chapman, now the superintendent of the New Glacier National park, had to do some plane-table mapping from the top of Mount Baptiste, sitting on a bank of snow and ice which overhung the mountain and which if it had slid off would have precipitated him downward half a mile or so. In another case a topographic engineer climbed out on a gnarled tree in order to get a sight past a jutting rock and set up his plane-table on its forked limbs.

With all the chances that have been taken by the men of the geological survey during the past 30 years in every state in the Union and Alaska—in mountains, in canyons and in swamps, no member of the survey has ever been killed and few seriously injured, though there has been some narrow escapes.

He looked up at me, smiling and nodding.

"Feel all right now, old man?" I inquired cheerily.

Billings looked at me hard, and then, dash it, he winked! And I began to wonder, by Jove, if it was just plain drunk.

CHAPTER XX.

My Darling Is Slandered.

Seemed to be only about a minute more and we were clipping through the curves of the Wolhurst park.

Frances pointed the way and had slowed down under the porte-cochere.

The frump whispered to the man who opened the door.

"As quietly as possible, Wilkes," she said, "and without his father seeing him."

"The judge is away, miss," said the man. "He drove down to the village with Senator Soakem, who had to catch a train back to Albany; but I'm looking for him every—"

"Be quick, then," jerked the frump. "You know what to do."

"I guess I do, miss," answered the butler gloomily. "I've had to do it often enough—Perkins and me. A good cold souse—that's the thing—and then bed. I know!"

Billings waved his hand to the frump as he mounted the stairway inside. And then, dash it, he kissed his fingers.

The frump kind of glared down the deserted vista of the fine old hall and shrugged her shoulders.

"Everybody loading, as usual," she muttered sourly, and she hurried her coat at the carven back of a great cathedral chair—and missed it.

It was clear that her type scorned conventionalities and knew how to make themselves thoroughly at home.

"I hope you'll be made comfortable here, Mr. Lightnut," she said, peeling a glove with a jerk, "but I have my doubts."

And she gave a kind of hollow laugh. "Awfully tiresome, these country places," I said sympathetically. "I screwed my glass at a couple of footmen who came into view at the far end of the hall, and who were whispering and chuckling about something. 'Things seem to be run a bit loose, don't you know—that's a fact. Don't mind for myself, but fancy a girl might find it rather trying visiting here.'"

By Jove, how she opened her eyes at me—surprised, I knew, at finding me such a devilish keen observer. My sympathy touched her, too, for her eyeballs shone moist of a sudden and I saw her lip tremble as she stared. Then she swallowed hard and slapped her gloves sharply across her palm.

"It's Francis that's to blame for that sort of things," she rasped, nodding down the hall.

"Frances?" I ejaculated in protest.

"Oh, here, I say, now—"

"You don't know Francis, Mr. Lightnut!" Her jaw ground with a snap, and what a look she gave me! "Wait till you do—you just wait!" And eyes and hands lifted to the ceiling.

I coughed again.

The cat! And this was my darling's friend!

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Relics of the Guillotine.

At the prison of St. Paul's, at Lyons, France, there is a curious collection of pens. When the Peanuts Ran Out.

For two hours an old back countryman, who had never before seen an elephant, had been standing before a row of them in enrapt silence dealing out peanuts one at a time. When the last was gone and no more forthcoming, Jumbo, the largest elephant, reached over and removed the entertainer's hat from his head to the top of a lion's cage nearby.

For the first time in two hours the old man expressed his emotions in words: "You old two-tailed Indian-rubber nuisance you!" he exclaimed indignantly. "If I knew which end your head was on, I'd slap your face."

COFFEE THRESHED HER.

15 Long Years.

"For over fifteen years," writes a patient, hopeful little Mrs. woman, "while a coffee drinker, I suffered from Spinal Irritation and Nervous trouble. I was treated by good physicians, but did not get much relief."

"I never suspected that coffee might be aggravating by condition. (Tea is just as injurious, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.) I was down-hearted and discouraged, but prayed daily that I might find something to help me."

"Several years ago, while at a friend's house I drank a cup of Postum and thought I had never tasted anything more delicious."

"From that time on I used Postum instead of coffee and soon began to improve in health, so that now I can walk half a dozen blocks or more with ease, and do many other things that I never thought I would be able to do again in this world."

"My appetite is good, I sleep well and find life is worth living. A lady of my acquaintance said, she did not like Postum, it was so weak and tasteless."

"I explained to her the difference when it is made right—billed according to directions. She was glad to know this because coffee did not agree with her. Now her folks say they expect to use Postum the rest of their lives." Name given upon request. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Postum now comes in concentrated, powder form, called Instant Postum. It is prepared by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, adding sugar to taste, and enough cream to bring the color to golden brown.

Instant Postum is convenient; there's no waste, and the flavor is always uniform. Sold by grocers—4c to 50-cup tin 80 cts., 90 to 100-cup tin 50 cts.

A 5-cup trial tin mailed for grocer's name and 2-cent stamp for postage. Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.—Ad.

lent! I am myself. Ha! And he whirled triumphantly.

"Ah!" he said, advancing eagerly and rubbing his hands. "It is you! You have heard, then? Marvelous, isn't it—wholly incredible! But do you know—here he plucked at my shirt front, took a pinch, as it were, just as he had seen the professor do—I cannot find any transmigration. The materialization appears to be wholly optical."

"Never mind," I said anxiously, for I knew he was talking about the rubies; "we don't care." I smiled brightly. "Let's go down and see the car—nice car!" And I tried to get hold of his fat side, but missed it.

"Car?" Billings looked puzzled. Then his face broke into a smile. "Carpe diem—oh, am I not right? 'Carpe diem'—whither you say." He looked about on a table. "Um—my notes, now," he muttered; and he caught up a small book and a pencil.

The professor's man protested: "Professor Doozenberry don't like—"

"Oh, dash it, let him have them!" I exclaimed, for Billings was already chuckling happily and writing in the little blank book.

"Come on," I pleaded, catching a fold of the pajamas. "Wouldn't you like to come get some clothes on?"

He drew back in alarm. "No, no—no yet—not until I complete my notes," was his crazy answer. "You know: sublimata causa, tollitur effectus!" And he looked as though he thought this would finish me.

"But your friend," he exclaimed suddenly, as he allowed me to throw a blanket about his shoulders and we moved out of the door, "the gentleman I met last night—Billings—is not that the name?"

I looked at him miserably as we entered the car to go down.

"Oh, I say, Billings, old chap," I protested earnestly, "don't you know me?" I pointed to the little panel of mirror in the cage. "Don't you know you are Billings? Can't you see?"

His fat head pecked at the glass for an instant. Then he looked at me with eager, battling eyes. He chuckled hoarsely, gurglingly, and out came the note-book and pencil from his sleeve.

"Better and better," he muttered. "Now, if we could only go to him!"

TER XIX. (Continued.)

Francis! she said lightly.

"She added, 'I believe I've found a Harvard man almost as good as you.'"

And before I what I was doing or thought the frump, I had stretched out a hand to her, looking her straight in the eyes and smiling. She hesitated a moment, then laughed, and I felt my fingers just brush my palm—she was enough.

Flushed a little shyly and addressed the frump.

"We going to keep Mr. Lightnut like this all day?" she asked. "All on earth and half in heaven—what's his name's coffin," I suggested. Devilish good, that, don't you think? So, for she opened her herself as the frump turned, turning some silly thing about the and the open door to America. "Did China have to do with it? It was just then that Jenkins and I wildly from the building.

Lightnut—quick, sir! Mr. Billings!"

thought of the telephone right off, but just caught my arm. First I never knew Jenkins to take a liberty with me, either."

"Come quick, sir!" he exclaimed. "Up-stairs and, oh, off his nut, awful!"

"By Jove!" I gasped. "Excuse me—come—come right back and tell me—fear this last night." And I led to the elevator with Jenkins. "He's in them black pajamas he was talking about," said Jenkins gloomily, "and he's run the professor off. 'Well, he ain't there, and his man get Mr. Billings to go. He came for me, but I couldn't do a thing with him, either.'"

I knew—I understood. It was the calling of his mind upon the rubies! He had gone back in the night for them—in his sleep, for all I knew. I thought most likely awake, for my experience with him showed that he didn't think anything of wandering around the neighborhood in his pajamas.

The janitor's pale face met us at the landing.

"I've sent for the police, sir, and it would be a good idea, don't you think, you could get him away before they come. I don't want to get Mr. Billings into no trouble."

"Good idea," I agreed. "We'll just get him to the car—but, h'm!"

I suddenly remembered he was in his pajamas. It might be all right to Billings to wander around in public streets and vehicles in his nightgown, but it certainly wouldn't do under the present circumstances. He might not care, but then, there were the feelings of the girls to consider. And besides, dash it, I had some sort of idea it was against the law.

Billings was standing by the window looking at a glass thermometer that he had just withdrawn from his mouth.

"Um!" he grunted complacently. "Ninety-seven and a quarter—my usual healthy subnormal temperature. Pulse sixty-five—respiration, twenty-four and two-fifths—excellent, excellent."

about her beauty! Beauty! Poor old Jack! If I had been sad about him before, it was a devilish sight worse now—

Worse? Why, dash it, she kissed him!

And to see him standing there, kind of batting and rolling his eyes and looking like a girl does when she's trying a strange piece of candy out of the box—oh, it just broke me all up!

No wonder he was crazy! Why, dash it, he would have to be crazy! He was muttering to himself.

"Remarkable!" I heard. "Singularly senate and exhilarating! Now, I never would have thought—um!"

And then he very deliberately took her head between his hands and—kissed her. Then he looked upward thoughtfully and did it again—like a chicken drinks water—you know!

And then while we—that is, Jenkins and I—were trying to urge him on, out came the note-book again and he scribbled rapidly, muttering audibly: "Labial osculation—extraordinary stimulation—sensory ganglia—mucous membrane—"

"Police!" I whispered brutally in the frump's ear. "Better let's get him away!" And, by Jove, that woke her out of her trance! In two minutes she had calmed him to the car and we had him inside on the cushions. We bunched blankets and rugs about him to hide the pajamas.

"Jacky, dear," gushed the Chinese freak, "wouldn't you like for me to sit by you and hold your poor hand?"

It looked as if he would.

The frump turned to me. "Can you drive the car, Mr. Lightnut?"

Could I? Well, I would show her! Especially as Francis had changed to the front as she saw us bringing out the frump.

"Take the train—get Billings' things from the club," I called to Jenkins. "Sharp, now! And here, unbook: that number there on the back—give it here!"

Jenkins hesitated. "I think there's a heavy fine, sir," he hinted.

I snapped my fingers at him and he jumped to obey.

"Worse things than a jolly fine," I said, looking at poor Billings smiling crazily over the frump. I threw the number plate into the car.

CHAPTER XX.

My Darling Is Slandered.

Seemed to be only about a minute more and we were clipping through the curves of the Wolhurst park.

Frances pointed the way and had slowed down under the porte-cochere.

The frump whispered to the man who opened the door.

"As quietly as possible, Wilkes," she said, "and without his father seeing him."

"The judge is away, miss," said the man. "He drove down to the village with Senator Soakem, who had to catch a train back to Albany; but I'm looking for him every—"

"Be quick, then," jerked the frump. "You know what to do."

"I guess I do, miss," answered the butler gloomily. "I've had to do it often enough—Perkins and me. A good cold souse—that's the thing—and then bed. I know!"

Billings waved his hand to the frump as he mounted the stairway inside. And then, dash it, he kissed his fingers.

The frump kind of glared down the deserted vista of the fine old hall and shrugged her shoulders.

"Everybody loading, as usual," she muttered sourly, and she hurried her coat at the carven back of a great cathedral chair—and missed it.

It was clear that her type scorned conventionalities and knew how to make themselves thoroughly at home.

"I hope you'll be made comfortable here, Mr. Lightnut," she said, peeling a glove with a jerk, "but I have my doubts."

And she gave a kind of hollow laugh. "Awfully tiresome, these country places," I said sympathetically. "I screwed my glass at a couple of footmen who came into view at the far end of the hall, and who were whispering and chuckling about something. 'Things seem to be run a bit loose, don't you know—that's a fact. Don't mind for myself, but fancy a girl might find it rather trying visiting here.'"

By Jove, how she opened her eyes at me—surprised, I knew, at finding me such a devilish keen observer. My sympathy touched her, too, for her eyeballs shone moist of a sudden and I saw her lip tremble as she stared. Then she swallowed hard and slapped her gloves sharply across her palm.

"It's Francis that's to blame for that sort of things," she rasped, nodding down the hall.

"Frances?" I ejaculated in protest.

"Oh, here, I say, now—"

"You don't know Francis, Mr. Lightnut!" Her jaw ground with a snap, and what a look she gave me! "Wait till you do—you just wait!" And eyes and hands lifted to the ceiling.

I coughed again.

The cat! And this was my darling's friend!

Relics of the Guillotine.

At the prison of St. Paul's, at Lyons, France, there is a curious collection of pens. They are the pens with which the executioners have signed the regulation receipts for the prisoners handed over to them to be guillotined. At each execution a fresh pen is used for the purpose, and the ink is left to dry upon it.

Found An Honest Conductor.

Pittsburg, Pa.—A former street car conductor returned $100 to the company which he said was "conscience money."

As Quietly as Possible, Wilkes.

He caught my arm. "In the interest of this investigation of scientific phenomena, would we consider a call in—trusive—could we not seek your friend, Mr. Billings?"

"It's all right, you know," I gently reassured him. "Yes, we're going to him—going right there. Just a little ride, you know."

By Jove, the way he cackled made my heart ache! I whispered to Jenkins to run ahead and prepare the ladies. But the first thing we saw as the cage hit the bottom was a woman—and, dash it, the frump from China!

She gave a little scream and fell on Billings' neck, almost bearing him to the ground.

"Oh, Jacky, Jacky!" she sobbed. "By Jove, I almost fell myself! So that was the way the wind lay! And that was the way the wind lay! I had never even so much as suspected. That was why he had raved so

And just in time!

Around the corner whirled a policeman—and, by Jove, no less than that fat Irishman, O'Keefe! With him was the professor's man.

"Don't tell me," panted the officer; "I know my—"

And then he gave a shout and sprang for the car.

"It's that fellow that was prowling around the station house!" he yelled. "Here, stop there!"

But I didn't want to. For one thing, we were a half-block away, and I had badly coasted a towel supply wagon, and scattered the wares of a push-cart across three sidewalks.

My cap went flying as we skidded to a corner, and I was devilish glad, for the inertia threw Francis' head almost against mine and I felt the tickling brush of a little hair wisp as it swept my nose.

No school on Friday to allow the teachers and pupils to attend Farmer's Institute. The school will furnish a short program.

Remember the Farmer's Institute held here Friday all day and evening, program of which has appeared in the papers. It promises to be very interesting.

P. S. Daniels started out Monday at his work as traveling salesman for a jewelry firm, making his first trips to Graylake and Ingleside, besides his home town. We wish him success.

The Woodmen and Royal Neighbors had a very pleasant evening the occasion being open installation last Tuesday evening. C. T. Heydecker of Waukegan was installing officer for the Woodmen and Mrs. Chilstrom of Evanston did the installing for the ladies. Both did their work in a very creditable manner. Mr. Heydecker, who has made a study of the rate question, gave an interesting talk. Mr. Lentzner, accompanied by Mr. Mitchell, gave a fine vocal selection. Edith Ray, Mildred Gonyo and Earl Hucker gave recitations and the Royal Neighbors furnished a splendid supper, after which, a social dance was enjoyed, so taken all together, it was one of the most enjoyable installations ever held in Lake Villa.

Didn't Know Stone's Value.
While rummaging through an old chest, Mrs. A. Watzel, of Ravenswood, W. Va., came across an old stone that had been given her by a relative 27 years ago, and which she thought had no value. She showed it to a guest at her home and he took it to a jeweler, who declared it an uncut diamond worth $1,200.

Signs Missing.
"Why do you want your money back?" asked the man at the box office. "You're operating under false pretenses here. This isn't a real vaudeville show. I noticed that three of the performers sang songs in which there was no mention of love in connection with the stars above."

Watering Hanging Plants.
A difficulty in watering hanging plants is that the water drips on to the floor. If a very small funnel is fixed in the soil, hidden by the foliage, and the water poured in this, it will gradually seep into the soil without dripping on the floor.

Use Lime.
If a small box of unslaked lime is kept in the pantry it will absorb all impurities. The air will be kept dry and sweet. Change the lime every two or three weeks.

A little four-year-old girl was walking with her mother, when a caterpillar, the first she had ever seen, crawled in front of them. "Muvver, muvver!" she cried excitedly. "Look! Your muf's little girl is out taking a walk!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Met Peculiar Death.

A case in which three bluejackets were killed by fumes from potatoes was described in the recent annual report on the health of the British navy. The men were overcome in a provision room in the Superb, where there was a stock of potatoes. Some of the potatoes were germinating, and this gave rise to an accumulation of gas, which suffocated the men.

PEOPLE URGE CLASSIFICATION

Tax Amendment Changing System Favored 3 to 1 Through-out State.

BIGGEST VOTE SINCE 1904

Advisory Vote of 541,189 to 187,467 (Next to Vote for Direct Primaries) to Have Weight With Legislature.

Springfield, Ill.—By a vote of 541,189 to 187,467 (according to revised returns just compiled from all counties, including Cook) a tremendous proportion of Illinois voters have approved the idea of abandoning the unwieldy general property tax, and adopting the modern plan of classification of property in taxation.

This is the largest affirmative vote cast on any public policy question except the vote for direct primaries in 1904. While this vote is merely advisory, yet it should indicate to members of the General Assembly an exceedingly live public sentiment in favor of amending the constitution to abolish the obsolete general property tax and to permit the enactment of modern laws such as are in use in states which have the best tax systems. The question was presented to the voters entirely apart from political controversies and the newspapers and various other publications and organizations of the state have been doing a lot of valuable educational work, by presenting plain facts and the careful reports of expert commissions to the voters.

It is expected that the popular vote of November 5 on this question will have considerable influence with members of the General Assembly next winter, especially as the tax problem bears constantly harder on the pocket books of all citizens, whether direct taxpayers or not.

The vote on the other questions was as follows:

	Yes.	No.
Primary law revision.	524,171	158,531
Short ballot com'n.	508,780	165,270

These subjects also are expected to receive attention during the winter.

The Angelus.

I've been reading a life of Millet and was struck with his poverty at the time he painted "The Angelus." When one considers how the pictures may now be found in countless homes in this and every country, it seems incredible that Millet had trouble selling the original. All his clients hesitated, until at last a Belgian diplomat was persuaded into buying it. About this time Millet wrote, "We have wood only for one or two days. They will not give it to us without money." Better times were ahead, however, and the wonderful pictures eventually brought Millet at least a living. He is said to have named "The Angelus" in this way: A friend was looking at it for the first time. "What do you think of it?" said Millet. "I hear the bells ringing. It is the Angelus!" was the immediate answer. "It is indeed!" said Millet. "I am contented. You understood it."—New York Press.

TAX BOOST FAILS

TAX OFFICIALS MAKE GREAT EFFORT TO INCREASE PERSONALITY VALUATIONS.

INCREASE CHIEFLY ON LAND

State Board's Report Proves Just Taxation Impossible Without Constitutional Amendment—Much Property Escapes.

Springfield, Ill.—The mountain has labored and brought forth a mole. Goaded by the cry that personal property in Illinois—especially intangible personal property—was not bearing as great a proportion of the tax burden of the state as it did in 1870, the vast taxing machinery throughout the state bent every effort to increase the personal property valuation. Now the publication of the annual report of the state board of equalization shows the net results.

In all of the 102 counties of the state, including the tremendously wealthy county of Cook, $8,185,071 (assessed valuation) is all of the escaping personality that the assessors were able to find under the existing unworkable laws. Lands, lots and improvements they increased $12,823,924, and railroad property was given a net boost of $7,259,507. This latter was wholly on visible railroad property, however, as railroad personality suffered a shrinkage of $84,639 from last year.

The equalized assessed values which are one-third of the fair cash values as estimated or guessed at by the tax officials, are as follows:

	1912.	Increase Over 1911.
Personal	$ 470,904,245	$ 8,185,071
Real estate	1,642,837,956	12,823,924
Railroads	202,283,213	7,259,507
Cap'l stock—
not railroads.	27,854,277	*2,714,473
Total	2,343,879,691	$25,554,329

*Decrease.

Although the total increase in taxable values of $25,554,329 indicated in the table will mean some slight addition to the money available for public expenditure in the various cities and counties, yet the chief significance of these figures for taxpayers is that, together with the increased tax rate incidental to the new one mill tax for the State University, they are going to mean bigger tax bills in many cases. As usual real estate and visible property will bear the brunt of the increase. Personal property this year (not including railroad personality) constitutes 20.08 per cent of the total valuation. Last year it was 20 per cent—lower percentages than in the early '70's.

This unbecoming situation will grow worse and worse unless the General Assembly proceeds to do its duty by the people and submit the tax amendment which they have demanded.

No tax amendment; no tax relief. The people want the amendment.
